DRIVE FORWARD NOW.

C. G. Ballentyne.

To this committee has been given the duty of investigating and determining whether a new plank on charter revision should go into the platform, or whether the intent of the plank of 1914 was satisfied by the calling of the charter convention, even though the convention's action was unsatisfactory.

It did not mean revision for the pampering of patronage. It meant revision for good government and efficient municipal administration and the action of the charter convention was a violation of sound principle.

The Star-Bulletin is expressing the opinion this paper has heard from innumerable tax-payers and voters in saying that the Republican party on Oahu will strengthen itself and will command the support of the growing "independent" element if it stands first, last and all the time for a progressive charter. It is a technical point whether the fight should be made now or when the convention's report is made to the legislature. Under the circumstances, technical points should be thrust aside and the party drive forward upon the main issue of progressive city government.

WHERE POLITICS WAITS ON SUGAR.

Politics goes by seasons in Cuba-not dependent upon ordinary nominations and elections, but upon the sugar season. An Associated Press despatch gives the following interesting sidelight:

"With the approach of the close of the sugargrinding season and the release from employment of many thousands of workers, interest in the presidential campaign is beginning to command attention. By a tacit understanding between the leaders of the various factions, political activities during the grinding season were confined mainly to committees and two Rivers of Doubt-one the Meuse, the other the conference work for the purpose of consolidating the Stockhod. two great national parties, the Conservatives, following President Menocal, and the Liberals, whose nominee is former Vice-President Alfredo Zayas."

> In one breath the Advertiser scoffs at the "free port" idea for Honolulu, and in the next declares valorously that Honolulu can and should make itself "the best half-way house in the Pacific Ocean," and Company I, 3d Battalion of Engineers, that shippers and businessmen should work for "the quick despatch of vessels calling here for fuel and supplies." Hasn't it occurred to our morning friend that with a "free port" district Honolulu businessmen could supply vessels at lower cost than otherwise? One of the foremost, one of the most vital points in the whole free port idea is that it enables supplies to be brought here from foreign ports, where they can be bought cheap, stored in the free port district without paying Uncle Sam's duty, and furnished to vessels. With advantages such as this, Honolulu would have something besides geographical position and harbor facilities upon which to compete with the future Fanning Island and with the California and Sound ports. Why condemn a suggestion without fair investigation of its possibilities?

Unfortunately for the Allies neither of those daring German aviators, Lieut. Immelmann and Lieut. Boelcke, after being slain by the press bureaus would stay dead.
